Step 1: Determining Eligibility

For determining eligibility for Federal Student Financial Aid, a student is automatically Independent if:

- the student was born before January 1, 1998
- the student is working on a master's or doctoral degree or graduate certificate program
- the student is married
- the student is an orphan (both parents are deceased)
- the student is a veteran of the US Armed Forces
- the student is currently serving on active duty in the US Armed Forces for purposes other than training
- the student has a child or children who receive more than half support from the student
- the student was in foster care or was a ward of the court at any time since the student turned age 14
- the student has dependents who live with the student and receive more than half support from the student
- the student is an emancipated minor as determined by a court in the student's state of legal residence
- the student's high school or school district homeless liaison determined that the student was an unaccompanied youth who was homeless (since July 1, 2020)
- the director of an emergency shelter or transitional housing program funded by HUD determined the student was an unaccompanied youth who was homeless (since July 1, 2020)
- the director of a runaway or homeless youth basic center or transitional living program determined the student was an unaccompanied youth who was homeless or was self-supporting and at risk of being homeless (since July 1, 2020)

Students not meeting one or more of these criteria are considered DEPENDENT by the US Department of Education.

If you do not meet one of the above options, as a student, you are NOT considered Independent if:

- your parents are unwilling to assist you financially
- you consider yourself financially independent from your parents
- your parents are unwilling to provide information for the application process
- you are in a disagreement with your parents
- you live in a different residence than your parents
- you claim yourself on your federal income tax return (or your parents do not claim you)

While these circumstances may commonly indicate the independence of an individual, the US Department of Education has specifically stated they do NOT qualify a student for Independent status. Schools are prohibited from granting a dependency override on these conditions.

Students may request a Dependency Override IF...

- you can document a continued relationship with your parent(s) is physically and/or emotionally detrimental
- your parent(s) permanently reside in a country with which the United States does not maintain normal diplomatic relations

If you have an unusual circumstance, continue to Step 2
